

Sunday, February 13 | Porcelain Berry “Snap” at Brookside Reservation, Cleveland Metroparks

When, Where, How:

Sunday, February 13, 2011 from 12-2pm

Brookside Valley Event Site is located on John Nagy Boulevard, off the Ridge Road entrance of Brookside Reservation in Cleveland—north of the I-480 / Ridge Road Exit.

RSVP to Gayle Albers, Conservation Coordinator
(216) 635-2526 or gla@clevelandmetroparks.com

Bring your sweetie and “SNAP” some porcelain berry vines! This weed removal project is open to volunteers who would like to participate. We will be manually pulling this invasive plant from the Brookside Reservation Area so that native plants can have a better chance to bloom come spring. This area is located along a butterfly monitoring path, and native plants help support our important pollinators. Bring gloves and dress for the weather. The event will be cancelled in the case of extreme weather. To keep you cozy, complimentary HOT chocolate, HOT chili and HOT dogs will be served, thanks to members of Friends of Big Creek!
